Simply

For Panorama 2006, "Simply Classic," we decided to return to the idea of a more traditional yearbook, while at the same time adding an original flare. The goal of this publication is to be, as the title suggests, simple and classic. We also wanted a theme that was able to relate back to the school itself, and effectively portray each class as its own, classic story by highlighting each individual grade's uniqueness.

With a return of the theme to a more elegant design, the yearbook strives to be simply classic: "simple and classy" as well as "classic, no more; just as simple as that." It is to have class, be classy, and be classical. To take the title at face value, one would expect a classic, traditional book preserving this year's memories experienced by the students; the classic high school tale told through a timeless masterpiece. Delving a little deeper, the book strives to be classy. Not only does it preserve the memories but it does so with elegance and style.

In another play on words, within the High School there are many meanings of the word "class." There is the upper class and under class, a class as a grade and even more specifically, a subject class (e.g. math class). Most meaningfully, the term "class" means "group" which is what Weston High School is all together: a class of its own.

Dedicated With Love

to Benja Vaughn

Benja: a beloved son, admired brother, and trusted friend.

Benja and his father were caught in a mudslide in August of 2000 in Switzerland and passed away. Benja swam on the same swim team, played the same computer games, watched the same movies, and hung out with the same kids as many. He could always make people smile. He would quote or reference some obscure book that would answer the question under discussion. He was always willing to lend a helping hand.

Benja cared. He was a dependable, consistent source of comfort and friendship for many. He always had a smile on his face. He will be missed by everyone who knew him.

A story often repeated on the swim team goes as follows: A coach once asked Benja what stroke he wanted to swim on the medley relay. Benja responded, "I like them all. Let the other three kids choose, and I'll take whatever is left." Benja was wise beyond his years, responsible beyond his grade, and respectful beyond his peers. He will be missed.

A very special thanks

Franz Kafka wrote, "The meaning of life is that it ends." Being aware that my career as a public school educator would end following this school year has heightened my appreciation for every day. Students at Weston High have confirmed my optimism and have inspired me to match their ideals. A good community is one where people value and support each other, have opportunities to engage in their gifts and passions, and are challenged to expand comfortable limits. Weston High is such a place. I am grateful for the rich and wonderful experiences the 2005-06 school year presented. I have been going to school every year since September of 1953 and cannot imagine a better place to finish my formal schooling. It has been an honor to serve as your principal.

Robert R. Desaulniers
S.H.S. – Class of 1966
W.H.S. – Class of 2006

Mr. Desaulniers performs many important administrative duties for the Weston High School, but the students have also come to know him as he offers a more personal side to the office. Often times, he shows his support for the students at sporting events, concerts and theater productions. He is also known for greeting the students students before school in the early morning, with his coffee mug, even in the cold and windy weather.

Seniors

Two thousand six has been named by many "the most caring class of the time." Its members continually prove themselves worthy of that title; throughout the years the seniors of 2006 have supported others both inside and outside of Weston High School.

As upperclassmen, these students strove to provide a welcoming environment for newcomers. Under the reign of 2006, we saw a revival of the senior buddy system (which was ironically dropped their freshman year), revamped as the Senior Network. This unique idea stressed that there is a support network for incoming freshmen, rather than just a one-on-one buddy relationship. In addition, the seniors in National Honor Society began the year with an orientation for new teachers, hopefully starting a long-lasting tradition. Members also developed an extensive tutoring network to aid freshmen and sophomores, showing that this class constantly looks out for the well being of others.

In addition to caring for the school, 2006 has shown tremendous dedication for the community. In a single car wash, members of this class raised $2006 for victims of Hurricane Katrina, and over the years several individuals have coordinated huge fundraising events. Members have spearheaded efforts to bring the Relay for Life to Weston (which ultimately generated a record breaking $81,000 in its primal year), organized a "Can Cure Cancer" walk, and developed a daffodil drive all to raise money for cancer research. Similarly, no one can forget the tremendous dedication this class showed for the Walk For Hunger their freshman year when the bus driver deserted because no chaperone was well enough to participate. The license-less, yet determined freshmen found alternate transportation rather than give up; they cared too much to quit.

With relation to the theme of the book, 2006 has class. It's as simple as that. In the senior section, we aimed to convey the idea of a classy layout with simple, yet sharp green borders to give a panache of style, and subtle green backdrops to soften the image. The result is a layout with the simple elegance that 2006 deserves, for it is no exaggeration to say that it is a class above the rest.

CLASS OF 2006
Proud and united, the seniors get together as a grade to show their class pride.

CLASS OFICERS
Secretary Jessica Young, President Christine Johnson, Treasurer Genevieve LaFrance, Vice President Amy Bond and SAC rep Vivian Liu proudly represent the senior class.

Well high school has really been some crazy stuff. A special "shoutout" to taylor, doug, nick, rosey and fixey. You guys are great. I might get yelled at if I forget kate :-P. TC's you guys are awesome. A grrrrrrr to the tiger clan and one final statement to go burning out with. "1000 YEARS OF PAIN!"

"People are afraid of themselves, of their own reality; their feelings most of all. People talk about how great love is, but that's bull. Love hurts. Feelings are disturbing. People are taught that pain is evil and dangerous. How can they deal with love if they're afraid to feel? Pain is meant to wake us up. People try to hide their pain. But they're wrong. Pain is something to carry. You feel your strength in the experience of pain. It's all in how you carry it. Pain is a feeling. Your feelings are a part of you. Your own reality. If you feel ashamed of them, and hide them, you're letting society destroy your reality. You should stand up for your right to feel your pain."-Jim Morrison. Thank you to those true friends who have made life more bearable. I owe the world to you.

Don't be afraid of changes, no matter how suddenly they may occur. There's always a reason, so come what may…don't look back, don't regret, just live. You've only got this one life to share amongst friends and family, so use it well.

How can I even begin to use this space to sum up the amazing two years I've had here? Even the infinite expanses of space would not be enough for all I've got to say

I live now without regrets for moving here I live now, glad to have known so many of you. And as we look forward into the future, I don't even have to look back,

Underclassmen

A BLEND OF CLASS

As the underclassmen ascend through the ranks of Weston High School, we celebrate their promising potential, and anticipate a prosperous future.

These students have already shown themselves to be strong leaders, as each class has organized huge and successful events such as trips to Red Sox games and Frog Pond, elaborately themed dances, the Special Olympics, the Sophomore Haunted House, and – of course – the Junior Prom. As a result of their skill and dedication, many more repeated successes are expected in the years to come.

The underclassmen blend together all of the elements that form a good student body. They have an amazing sense of school spirit, which helps to create a more unified atmosphere, as well as a lot of individual class pride, providing for friendly rivalry. Likewise, their most important feature is that they know how to respect one another.

It says a lot that the seniors of 2006 feel confident in passing on their positions as club officers and team captains to the next generation. After all, they recognize that the underclassmen are worthy of leading the school in the future for they are the best blend of class.

Faculty

WITH A TOUCH OF CLASS

Weston High School's faculty is an unparalleled group of people which works as a team to make the school run smoothly. These dedicated individuals constantly devote their lives to the well being of the students. Their hard work is apparent in all forms, from the clean hallways and stocked bathrooms to the delicious cafeteria food, from excited, knowledgeable students and outstanding AP scores to unmatched execution of the visual and performance arts, and from a quiet library in which to study to a caring nurses' office for when one feels sick.

Their dedication is also shown by the extent of hours they spend at the school. Several arrive long before school starts to get it ready for the students, and many others stay afterwards to be available for extra help, to coach sports, or to monitor various extra curricular activities. Often times they are required to be in school for workshops while the students enjoy First Wednesdays out early, or extra vacation.

Resultingly, this school owes a lot to this team of individuals who work, as always, with a touch of class.

Sports

SOME CLASS ACTION

From the field to the court, from the track to the pool, and from the river to the wrestling pit, Weston's athletes truly embody the idea of school spirit and sportsmanship as they play and perform together.

All athletes know that sports are not just about scores, the winning records, the competitions, or even the athleticism. Weston High is proud to boast that its teams continually demonstrate what sports truly are: commitment, determination, good times, and the incredible levels of achievement that one alone cannot reach. Most importantly, sports are about the friendships created. The long, grueling practices, psych-ups on game days, and end-of-the-season banquets generate fond memories that will be remembered for years to come.

The sports teams have prepared our athletes for a bright future by teaching them about the importance of drive and teamwork while also allowing them to experience team pride and the feeling of having infallible confidence in one another.

Weston's citizens are lucky to be able to see a myriad of different sports nearly every night of the week, and proudly welcomes two new varsity sports this year: Girls' Ice Hockey and Crew. Weston is also proud to boast a tradition where the athletes, the fans, and even the competition always feel welcome on the field. Talk about class action!

TAKE DOWN

- Seniors: J.T. Toy, Steve Rubash, Craig Lynch, Joe Cinar, Sam Lichter, Henry Lieber.
- The Wrestling Team concluded its season with a 14 - 4 record. To achieve this feat, they had to look forward from their rocky start, and ace all matches to the state finals. The team recovered from three early losses to sweep the remainder of its meets.
- Coaches Baldanza, Thomas, Grant, McShane, Kief and Dowden were an instrumental part of the team's success, and helped highlight the skills of the individual players.

It is extremely wonderful that the Weston High School has so many activities available to everyone! The students are lucky that there are tons of exciting extra-curricular things to do during Activities Period, after school, on the weekends and even before school that enrich their lives and open them to new knowledge, experiences and cultures.

Over the four years, the students have the opportunity to try all sorts of new clubs; many students also decide to revive old ones that have died out or even start their own. Activities provide a nice, fun, laid-back part of the day as well as an opportunity for many to get experience in leadership positions, running meetings and planning events.

In the activity section, we started something new this year. We decided to include all of the club officers on the pages, because we felt that it was nice to recognize the hard work they do throughout the year. With such a variety of activities available, we feel like this section represents all of the diversity that one cannot find anywhere else, and in that, it is a mixture that represents the whole school: a prefect blend!

WESTON HIGH SCHOOL PANORAMA STAFF, 2006

ADVISOR
Iona Nickeson

Thanks to everyone who helped create Panorama 2006. I especially appreciate the responsibility and determination of Yearbook Editor Alisan Oliver-Li who worked non-stop to make this book very special. Thanks also to Assistant Editors Ali Bond and Christine Johnson, and the other members of the yearbook staff, who helped her accomplish that goal. I would be remiss if I neglected to acknowledge the Weston parents, students, teachers and staff who helped us in countless ways, such as supplying us with pictures, that were vital to the completion of the book. Again, thank you!

We were really grateful to have hardworking underclassmen such as Becca and Jillan who spent countless hours in the yearbook office on Saturday mornings. Goodluck next year!

UNDERCLASS SECTION EDITORS
Becca Hildreth and Jillian Mizner

Ainsley and Lauren, thank you for coming in to help on those days when everyone else just wanted to be home. You girls are great for getting your own pictures and for always wearing bright smiles. Thanks!

FACULTY SECTION EDITORS
Ainsley Castro and Lauren Margolis

Cecillia was always on top of her game, and also most of the time, ahead of ours! No matter how many names she entered into the computer, she always had a smile on her face. We know that she will do great next year!

Index Editor

Cecillia Lui

Our most efficient group of editors, whose deadline was only two days late, was for the senior section. We would like to thank these girls who faced the hard task of contacting every senior and making sure that their quotes were perfect for the yearbook!

Closing

A CLASSIC ENDING

The closing section's color is blue to match the opening, as each end is truly a new beginning: the chance to start over. Likewise, the closing section should be viewed like the closing of the year, because that is exactly what it is: the year in review. It looks back on the memories of the past year and effectively combines everyone together in a single, unified section. We gave each grade its own page on which we displayed its class events so everyone can look back and fondly remember this year's good times. Likewise, we gave the seniors an extra page for remembering all that they have done as a class throughout all four of their high school years, not just this past one.

In addition to candids from all grades, we also saw it fitting to include the Siblings, First Wednesday Assemblies and this year's Relay for Life in the closing section. After all, siblings are the most classic example of close connections and relationships from grade to grade. Meanwhile, the best thing about First Wednesday Assemblies -- in addition to the fact that they are fun and are followed by super short classes -- is that they are great ways for everyone in the school to have fun together, and therefore they are very appropriate for the closing section. In addition, the Relay for Life has become the biggest school wide event, one that is greatly anticipated by everyone, and one in which all of the students can unite for a common cause: helping to raise money for cancer research. Since the biggest aspect of our school is a unified environment, we decided to close the section with a page with candids from all grades, in which everyone is intermixed. We believe it to be a fitting, classic ending to a classic tale.

Every year, many parents look forward to this section of the yearbook. After all, parents of seniors can get in touch with their creative sides as they make pages for their children, as well as contribute to the content of the book itself. This is the favorite section of many parents because it is both a chance to add an aspect of personalization the book as well as way to embarrass their children with photos that the seniors themselves would otherwise censor.

Many people always love to look through this section because it is full of cute baby pictures as well as touching messages from the families. It is also a great way to show the lives of the seniors outside of school, and display a side of the seniors with which the school may not otherwise be acquainted.

This section is appropriately named "messages" because it is one in which families leave personal messages to their seniors: messages of luck for the future, of nostalgia for the past and of inside jokes that should never be forgotten. It is the most personal part of the book, and for that it should be celebrated.

Good luck, Seniors of 2006; it's been great!

VISIONARIES Student Council Co-Presidents Lisa Wen and Henry Lieber stare off into infinity, looking ahead to the future.

Melanie

Congratulations Mary!
It's finally time for your graduation from WHS! After 10 years of the Abraham family in the Weston schools, you are finishing up an era on a high note. From field hockey to the track, you have dominated in athletics and that's only in addition to your successes in the classroom. We wish you the best as you take the next step in your education. College will be the next challenge in your life that you will have no trouble overcoming! We love you! Great job!

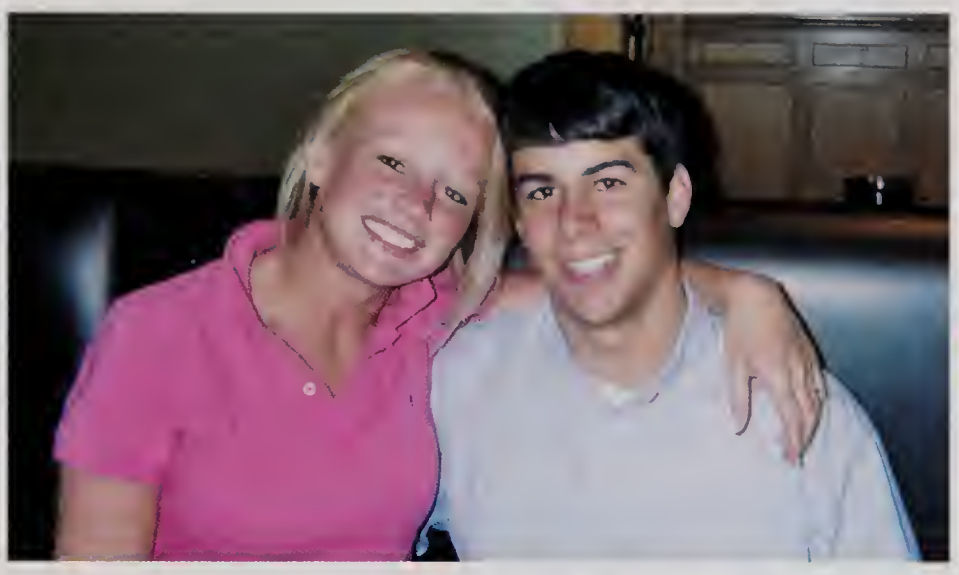
Love,

Your Family



Courtney,

You have a smile, a laugh, and a passion that is contagious. You are the daily spark in our family that will be sorely missed next year and beyond. We are your biggest fans in and out of the classroom as well as on and off diving boards and soccer/lacrosse fields. We are so proud of all you have done to date and know that a big bright future awaits you. You have many gifts and can achieve whatever you set your mind to- GO FOR IT! Know and remember that we will always support your endeavors and love you, because you are you. Love, Mom and Dad

Thanks Courtney for being a great sister and role model. I'll miss you. Love you. xo Phoebe

Thank you so much for being here through all the years. I'll miss you and your big sister advice. Love, Sally

Good Luck Princess, I'll miss you. Love, Otto

Kate Phelan

Well, you really have done it now! You can now see all the hard work and challenges for what they have always been, a job well done and another step completed on your journey through life. Thanks for letting us be part of your adventure. We love you and are very proud of your accomplishments. Whatever opportunities and pitfalls lie ahead, we know that you will meet them with grace, determination and intelligence and that, as with high school, they will become yet another milestone of your development as a creative and beautiful young woman.
Love Mom, Dad, Dave and Max

Congratulations! Well done! We love you and can't wait for you to return to Australia. DO'C, Wendy, Alex, Sam, and Benny

Your life has been interesting, fascinating and at times challenging.
We are happy that we have accompanied you for the first part of your journey,
As you find your own way in life, we will always remember your intellect,
strength, determination,
courage and your loving spirit.
May you leverage these resources in life.
Remember we will always love you,
And cherish the times we have had together.

ALLAN WANG

You have been and will always be our joy and pride. From Chapel Hill to Charlestown, from Abbott to Ledgewood Road, we enjoyed watching you grow from the little Tar Heel into a handsome and intelligent Wild Cat. We also enjoyed your piano recitals, band performances and basketball games. As you set sail into your new journey, we wish you the sweetest success and happiness!

MATT

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowances for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise.

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings -- nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run --
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And -- which is more -- you'll be a Man, my son!

We are so proud of you. Love, Mom, Dad and Connor

It isn't really important to decide when you are very young just exactly what you want to become when you grow up. It is much more important to decide on the way you want to live. If you are going to be honest with yourself and honest with your friends, if you are going to get involved with causes which are good for others and not just yourself, then it seems to me that that is sufficient, and that maybe what you will be is only a matter of chance.

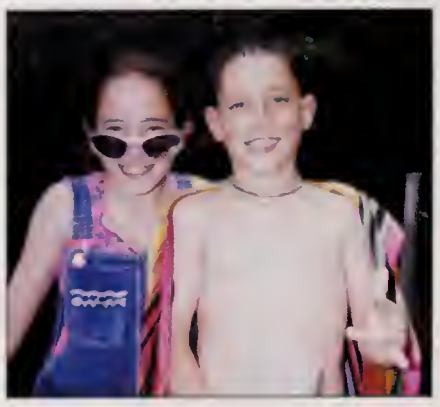
Alexandra Frances Siegel

It feels like yesterday that you were the most beautiful baby girl and now you've grown into a remarkable, smart and talented young woman. From the day you were born, you have brightened our lives with happiness. You have always been so focused, you have tremendous inner strength and you know yourself so well. We know you dreams and ambitions will come true.

You are our perfect daughter!
You are our star!

Life is a wonderful journey. Embrace it with open arms. Parenting you has been our privilege and a wonderful gift. Remember we will always be here for you, but it is your perseverance that will change the world!

With love Mom, Dad Paul and all of your Family



Dear Jolene,

We're all so proud of you. You have grown from a seed and blossomed into a lovely flower.

You have made wonderful accomplishments during your journey throughout the years to this day of commencement.

Congratulations on your High School Graduation.

P.S. Please clean your room before you leave.

Dear KT

Congratulations on your graduation from WHS. We are as proud as parents can be as you reach this celebration in your life. The day you were born you captured our hearts as love and light spring eternal! Your sweet and comforting smile and the effervescent twinkle in your eyes was all it took and we were hooked forever. As parents, it was clear to us that our hopes and dreams had been answered by your birth and that God must have spent a little more time on you, showering you with much love and many blessings.

We hope for you that happiness and good fortune will shine on each day of your life and that someday if you are blessed to have children of your own, you will feel first hand this complete and unconditional love that your mother and father share for you on this special day and forever.

We all love you very much!!! Mom, Dad, Willie, Jayme and Michaela.

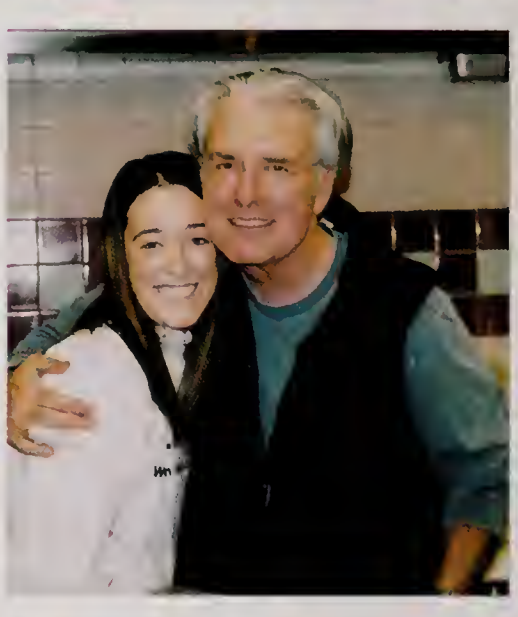
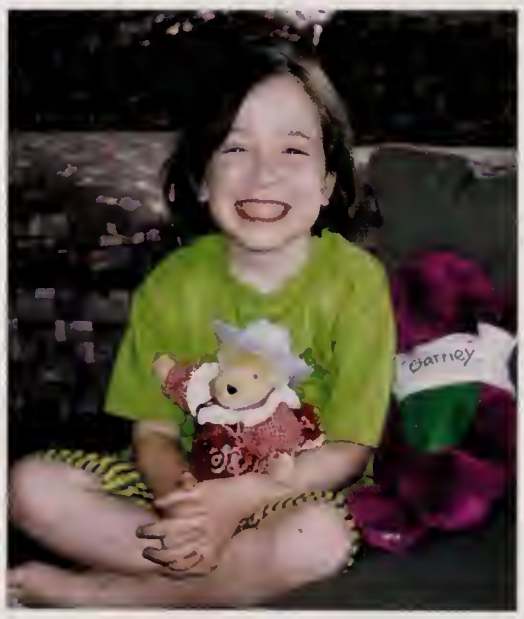
We are lucky to have you in our family. You are kind, caring and loving with a wonderful sense of humor and wit. Your dedication and determination to succeed will get you far. The best is yet to come.
Love, Mom, Dad and Robb.





to my baby diggy,
it's hard for me to accept that i'm writing this note to you, because that means you're officially "dunzo" with high school. not that i didn't believe you would graduate-i mean, you're wicked smaht-but i suppose i'll always think of you as the little muffin in the high chair screaming at the top of her lungs. at age 8. i was convinced you were destined for a career in the opera. though that's no longer the case (if it is. let me know. i'll put in some calls). i know that your future is bright-even if it's not on stage. you have grown into a beautiful,witty, confident, amazing individual and i'm so proud to call you my sister.
i love you up to the moon and back forever and always (but you already know that.) chin

Em,
I remember Sarah writing to me in my yearbook, warning me that before I knew it I'd be a senior in college writing to you as you graduate from high school. I know it sounds cliche' but she couldn't have been more right. I can't believe you are finished; it seems like just yesterday I was dropping you (a little 8th grader) off at the middle school. I want to thank you for letting me watch you grow. I admire your sharp wit, enjoy your sense of humor and I'm so proud of how you have always stayed true to your heart. You are the most loyal person I know and one of my best friends. Whatever the next four years hold, believe in yourself and know you can do anything. It all goes by fast, so enjoy it and know that I'm here whenever you need me. I love you, Magpie

It has been a privilege and a pleasure to watch you grow over the years. The thought and care to which you give most everything you do is admirable. Thank you for being a wonderful older brother. May God continue to bless you with strength and peace.

Life changed forever on your birth date.
Life became funnier, with your awesome sense of humor.
Life became more interesting, with your amazing creative intelligence.
Life became more loving, with your incredibly large and caring heart.
Life became more exciting, with your ebullient personality.

Life became more bearable, with your remarkable inner strength.
Our life became a better place: for us, for Mom, for everyone that has known and loved you.
And soon, the world will become a better place because of you.

You truly add spice to our lives! After all, with you, it's always a toss up between chips in bed and mayo sandwiches--both of which go well with hours of episodes of Friends. You have introduced us to new "friends" such as the Verizon and Dell service men and the many medical personnel we have come to know and love. You're our "ball of energy" who has kept us laughing and cheering all along the way. Your intensity and perseverance are an inspiration to us all. We know we can count on you to "come through" when we need you. Keep your passion for life, follow your heart and continue to strive for your dreams.
We love you dearly and are so proud of you.

We wish you happiness and fulfillment in life, but remember that most of that will come from the decisions you make, the effort you put forth, the kind of person you choose to be, and the way of life you choose to follow. When you make your decision or choice, follow that and not just what the majority is doing.

Dearest Jenna,

Congratulations on a huge accomplishment!
You truly are our dream come true:
everything we wished for and more.
Have the courage to find your purpose and follow your passion.
Forget what everyone else wants for
you. This is your journey.
Remember who you want to be.
Always. And live your life.
With some guidelines...
Laugh often. Wear sunscreen.
Never smoke. Get enough sleep.
Exercise. Always be kind. Never lie.
Laugh often. Let grudges go. Don't tolerate less than you deserve.
Dream big. Remember that love matters. Enjoy your moments.
Believe in yourself. Learn from your mistakes and move on. Laugh often.
Don't forget that your brother is your best friend.
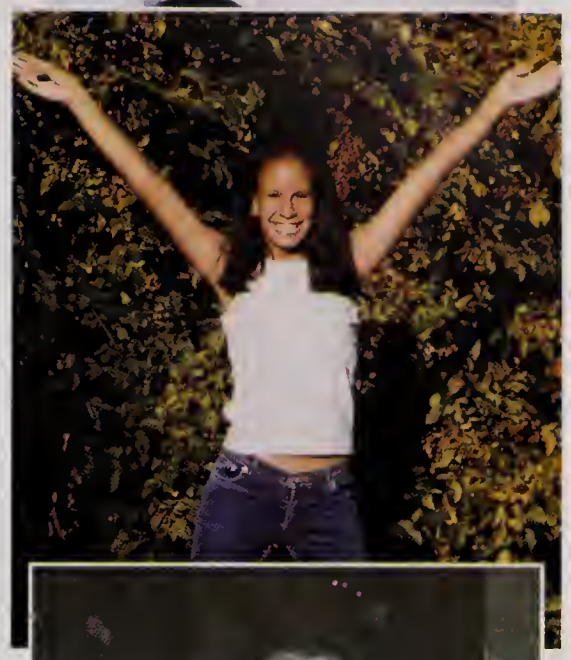
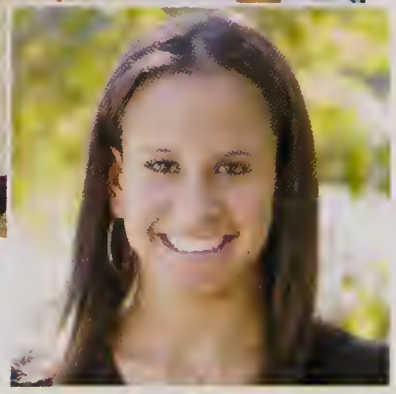
Call your mom and dad.
And if you ever lose your way -
there's always home.
With immeasurable love and pride,

Mom and Dad





Jenna-
For the past 13 years of my life, you have always been there for me. Whenever I would fall down or get sick, you would be happy to come to my aid. Whenever I was sad, you would cheer me up. Yes, we got in fights, and of course we still do. But now you are a graduate and all those arguments are behind us. I guess your graduation is too good to be true, because it comes with an awfully painful price--you leaving. I honestly don't know what I will do without you and the support you offer. You know as well as I do that we differ greatly in many ways, but the things we have in common keep us together, and I can't imagine how I will deal with not being with you for so long. I love you so much, and regardless of the fact that you are leaving me, I wish you the best of luck next year and congratulations on graduating! LOOVVEEE Joshua Ali, your high school years have given you strength, determination and spirit to do anything you feel capable of doing. I am proud to have had the chance to see your character grow each and every day of our lives together. As I send you off to discover yourself and to share you with the world, remember that integrity, values and prayers will keep you safe. Remember that you will always own a place in my heart, my soul and my home.

Commit to the Lord whatever you do,

KATIE SUOMINEN

As your grandfather said when you were just a young toddler, "Katie was fortunate to be born with Finnish fire, known as SISU." You have a special strength and persistent determination and resolve to continue and overcome in the moment of adversity. What must be done will be done, regardless of what it takes. It is a quality of personal character that is a combination of stamina, perserverance, courage, high ethics, and determination held in reserve for hard times. This strength of character will guide you through your journey of life. Follow your passion and know that our love is with you always and forever.

Love Mom, Dad, Charlie and Jack

Dear Katie --

A Father's Signs of Love for His Daughter

Katie, you are a very special person to your Dad. There are many, many things that I love about having you as my daughter. While you are both mentally headstrong and physically domineering, you exhibit many signs of having a very tender spirit and warm-hearted soul. You have always expressed great care for little things from your "hours" as a spirited toddler to your "decade" as a thriving teenager. Whether it was affection for dresses and black patent leather shoes, while you played in a sand box, or your early morning primping before a lacrosse game at which you wanted to smash you opponent, you have always expressed your personality in a very wide spectrum of light. The light from you shines from your eyes, your hair and that beaming smile that, sometimes you hold back for the moments when a smile is given to show a very happy moment in your life. It is the funny jokes in movies that nobody else gets that you laugh to tears, pulling off a grade that you have struggled so hard to make better, the removal of a splinter that you thought was going require amputation of a finger, and the frightening times: looking up at me after you slid down a hundred slippery steps with a smile that told me instantly you were OK, but just a little bit scared and in need of a big hug to assure you that you were still with us in our world.

You have always been in the forefront of our parental learning curve. In many ways as our first child, you led the way, as we "became our parents." You always kept us on the move to figure out what we had to do next to pave the road to your place in this world. A road that was built in stages, rough at first, then smoothed over for an easy ride, only to gradually wear down and get rough and full of potholes, in need of a little work to patch it up good as new. I both struggle with and love you for the challenges you impose upon your father. When you have lost a battle with Mom and you come to me for a second opinion, even though you know that I'll probably just listen calmly and won't change the outcome of the war you just lost. I realize you are looking for consoling words that are logical and rational so you can accept a rare defeat with some honor left in you. It is with love that I uphold a "no" that I know you have so vigorously have fought for a "yes." It is nice to know that I can be a person you can come to in your darkest hours and find solace with. We usually finish those conversations with a hug and a slight smile that tells me there is hope in your world and promise for the future.

As you have reached the stage of your life where you are making decisions that affect the rest of your life, I can only pray that we have done the right things to this point to enable you to make wise choices. Seeing you make wise choices brings great joy, knowing that my fear of not having done all I could to prepare you is perhaps unfounded. Knowing that you can establish your priorities in life in a logical order brings great peace of mind that when panic would normally set in a youthful mind, that you will be able to find a wise solution. I want you to enjoy the benefits of having yourself fully assured, both physically and mentally; that once you emerge from our parental cocoon you can find your way safely through the expedition of life to a presence that is happy, healthy and prosperous. It is comforting to know that when we make demands for you to conform to prepare yourself for life that, while sometime after a contentious debate, you can find your way to understand that we are doing what we believe in our hearts is truly best for you.

I hope this note helps you better appreciate that "no" can mean "we love you" just as much as saying "yes." Katie, I love you with all my heart. Go forward with your light and shine it upon all whom you touch.

Love --
Dad

Amie, we remember when you started K1 as a little girl, and now this is your senior year in high school. It just amazes us and makes us proud that you've come this far and matured so much, and to us that is one of the best gifts parents can have.
-Keep Walking Forward
-Always focus on your goals
-Your dreams are never as far away as you think. Think of the Red Sox! Face any challenge.
Love, Mom & Dad

Amie I can remember back in the day when we were little kids, it would always be you, Steven and I playing something or somewhere. Like anyone you matured and started seeing there were other things in the world and started getting closer to adulthood. Now when I was younger you thought I couldn't accept that, but it was because I was so used to always having you there. Honestly I bragged about you all the time, Amie "this", Amie "that."

Not to say we didn't have our fights like all siblings do, there was the time period where we never got along. You were a big sister to me and were there to give me the older sibling guidance, by giving me advice on things that kids our age go through and there to back me up, even when I didn't deserve your help.

With you graduating this year it's like your going to see the other things in the world like I said before. After the ways you've matured and in turn helped me do the same, I know we won't be distant, because I know we've come to form a strong bond. It would be surprising if we didn't, after all we go to school together and live together and even work together.

What I've been trying to say is you have a strong ambition and determination, you set your goal and you try your hardest to get there, at school, home and work. Now being the older sibling you are to me, I couldn't have gotten a better role model.

Love, Shaun

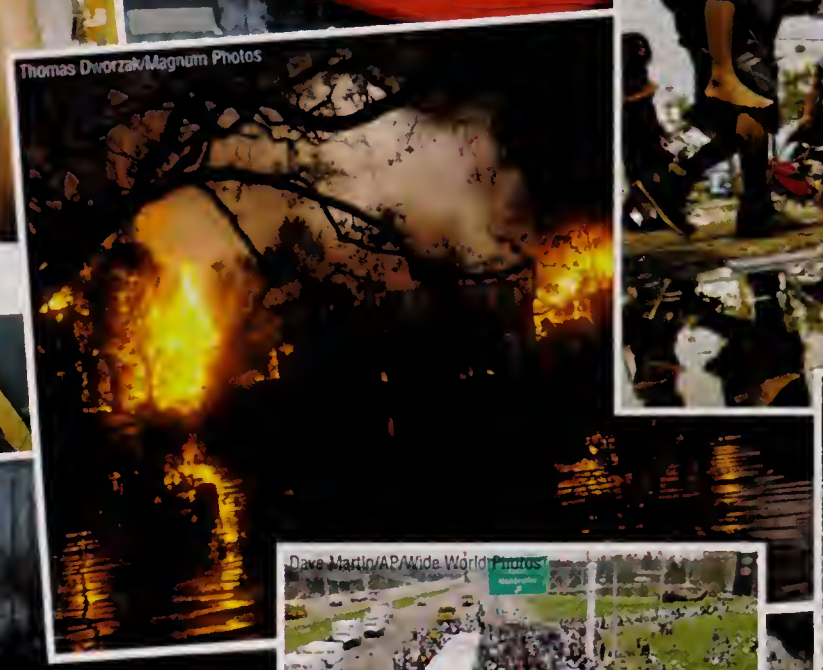
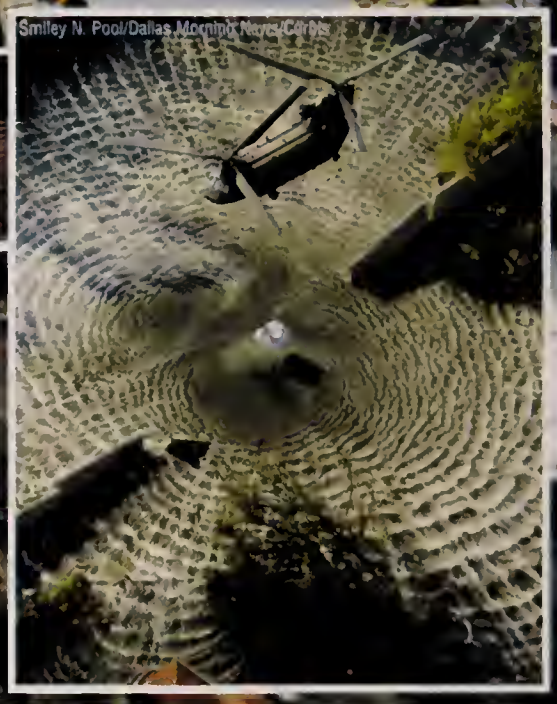
HURRICANES HIT HOME

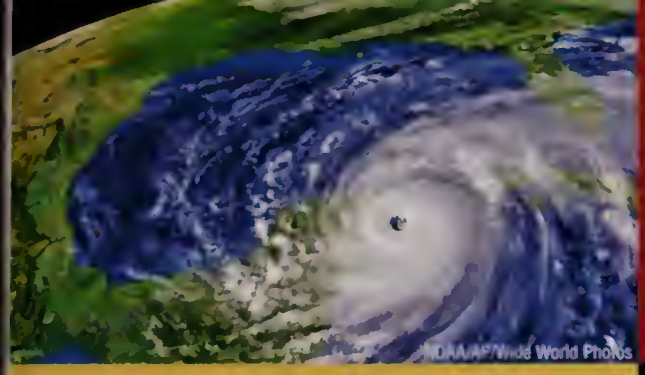
KATRINA
August 29, 2005





RITA
September 22, 2005

WILMA
October 24, 2005



Hurricanes ravage the Gulf Coast region in the fall of 2005, posing an unprecedented test of the United States federal emergency response efforts. Hundreds of lives are lost and thousands are left homeless in the wake of Category 4 Hurricane Katrina, followed by Rita and Wilma. The tragedy spurs contributions of money, talents, homes, food and more in an attempt to raise spirits and rebuild the area.

RISING FROM THE STORMS

August

25 Hurricane Katrina strikes Florida.

28 Mandatory evacuation of both New Orleans and Mississippi is ordered as Katrina becomes a Category 5 storm in the Gulf of Mexico.

29 Downgraded to a Category 4 storm, Katrina hits land. 1.3 million homes and businesses lose electricity in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. 30 levees are breeched, flooding New Orleans and leaving 100,000 people stranded. After slow government response, civil unrest and looting begins.

31 President Bush surveys the damage.

September

1 30,000 National Guard troops are deployed. Gas prices spike to as high as $5 per gallon.

2 President Bush visits Louisiana and signs a $10.5 billion relief bill. Nearly 154,000 evacuees arrive in Texas.

4 The New Orleans Superdome is evacuated.

6 President Bush and Congress pledge to investigate the flawed disaster response.

9 Government-issued debit cards are distributed to evacuees. The program fails and is ended days later.

12 Michael Brown, head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, resigns. Flooding is down to 50 percent in New Orleans.

14 New Orleans Mayor Ray Nagin announces a phased repopulation plan.

15 New Orleans begins to reopen. Katrina is named the most destructive hurricane in U.S. history.

20 Louisiana Governor Kathleen Blanco declares a state of emergency as Hurricane Rita strengthens off the coast.

22 Rita hits the Louisiana coast and heads for Texas.

23 Thousands evacuate eastern Texas and the 9th Ward of New Orleans floods once again after levees are overrun.

October

24 Hurricane Wilma hits southwest Florida.
